

High-level update on COOPEUS and NEON projects

Dr. Hank Loescher & Dr. Clare Lunch

On 25th April 2014 at 2:00 pm in a large meeting room of Global Change Research Centre AS CR, v. v. i.; Brno, Bělidla 986/4a

Dr. Hank Loescher is director of Strategic Development and International Initiatives &

Dr. Clare Lunch is a scientist in plant physiology

The National ecological Observatory Network (NEON), U. S. A.

The open disputation will focus on high level update COOPEUS and NEON projects. Neon is a continental scale observatory network that measures cause and effects of climate change, land use change and invasive species on U. S. ecosystems. Also provide free available data, educational research and scientific infrastructure for research COOPEUS connects research infrastructures and innovation of the EU and U.S. is funded under research infrastructures action 7th framework EU.